For purposes of this section, a family member is defined as parents or spouse's parents, spouse and children or grandchildren and their spouses, whether related by adoption, blood, marriage or civil union. Section 9. Conflict of Interest

Persons affected and duty to disclose. Directors, officers, trustees, key employees and disqualified persons as established by applicable IRS code and regulations, advisory board and non-board committee members, and any other person(s) designated by the corporation [hereafter referred to individually and collectively as an "affected person(s)"] at all times shall have an affirmative and continuing duty and obligation to disclose to the Board of Directors and the Chief Executive Officer any actual or potential conflict of interest and all relevant facts surrounding the matter for which a conflict may exist at the earliest time at which the affected person becomes aware of its existence.

Duty to abstain and leave. After disclosing an actual or potential conflict of interest, the affected person(s) thereafter shall abstain from any further discussion or consideration of the matter. An affected person shall leave the room in which a discussion or meeting about the matter is occurring immediately in order to permit the remaining independent board members who do not have a conflict of interest to determine what course of conduct or action shall be taken in the corporation's best interests.

Annual disclosure statement. To enable the corporation's ability to monitor and enforce this policy, each affected person annually shall:

- a) review the bylaws and its conflict of interest provisions and related policy;
- b) provide a written disclosure of all known conflicts;
- c) update in writing additional disclosures as appropriate continuously throughout the year; and,
- d) annually shall sign a statement attesting to their review and ongoing compliance with this policy.

Copies of each affected person's disclosure forms shall be maintained and monitored electronically by the Secretary of the Corporation and the Chief Executive Officer who shall produce the same upon request by any person or entity. Subject to board approval, the Secretary of the Corporation and Chief Executive Officer shall develop policies and procedures to facilitate their ability to monitor transactions and enforce compliance with this Section, related board policies and other applicable law.

Conflict of Interest defined and interpreted. A conflict of interest transaction may be considered to be, but is not limited to, any transaction or activity with the corporation, another entity, relationship, interest or involvement with any person or entity in which an affected person's actions or interests is or may be considered to contravene their fiduciary obligations, duties and responsibilities to the corporation and which results in; has the appearance of resulting in, or may result in personal, financial, business, organizational or professional gain or advantage accruing to an affected person(s).

The term "conflict of interest" shall be construed and interpreted broadly and liberally with the intent to protect the interests of the corporation in fulfillment of its exempt purposes; to protect the integrity of the board's decision-making processes by avoiding the taint of a decision or transaction which may be construed by outside parties or entities to the corporation as having been inappropriately influenced by an affected person with a conflict of interest, and to protect the affected person(s).

Direct and Indirect Conflicts of Interest. A conflict of interest may consist of either a direct or indirect conflict of interest and be of a financial, economic and/or non-financial nature. A conflict shall include, but is not limited to, any transaction involving inurement or private benefit. A conflict of interest may include any bias or the appearance of bias in the board's decision-making process or the corporation's transactions, which may reflect a duality of interests between an affected person(s) and their related entities and transactions or activities involving the corporation.

Transactions or activities of any nature involving an affected person are a direct conflict of interest. Transactions or activities of any nature involving third parties or entities associated with an affected person are an indirect conflict of interest.

For purposes of determining whether an indirect conflict of interest exists, an affected person has an indirect interest in a transaction if it involves:

- a) an affected person's family which includes his or her parents and ancestors, spouse, siblings (by whole or half-blood), children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren and their spouses and other family members whether related by adoption, blood, marriage or civil union;
- b) any entity in which the affected person or any family member(s) of their family whether as a co-owner, partner, corporation, shareholder, employee, agent or other significant individual connected to or with an affected person has a material interest or owns more than 35 percent (35%) of the combined voting power, profits interest and/or beneficial interests, or in which the affected person or any family member is a general or limited partner or associate is a party to the transaction and has a material interest; or,
- c) any entity in which the affected person or an affected person's family member is an officer, director, shareholder, partner, owner or trustee or has a relationship which given the totality of the circumstances should be considered by the corporation or board before engaging in the transaction.

Five year period. An affected person's status continues for a period of five (5) years following the conclusion of their last date of active involvement with the corporation. During this five (5) year period, the corporation shall engage in a conflict of interest analysis to determine whether or not a proposed transaction with an affected person or entity is in the best interests of the corporation.

Vote on conflicted transaction. Any corporate transaction in which an affected person has a direct or indirect interest shall only be authorized, approved or ratified in good faith by a majority, but not less than two (2), of the independent directors who have no direct or indirect interest in the transaction even though less than a quorum; provided, however, no such transaction shall be authorized, approved or ratified by a single director.

Violations of the Conflicts of Interest Policy. If the Board of Directors has reasonable cause to believe that an affected person has failed to disclose an actual or possible conflict of interest, it shall inform the affected person of the basis for such belief and afford the affected person an opportunity to explain the alleged failure to disclose. If, after hearing the affected person's response and after making further investigation as warranted by the circumstances, the Board of Directors determines that the affected person has failed to disclose an actual or possible conflict of interest, it shall take appropriate disciplinary and corrective action.

Applicable law. These provisions supplement any other applicable State or Federal law or regulation, which may apply to conflicts of interest.

Section 10. Certain Director Liability

In addition to other liabilities imposed by law upon the directors, a director shall be subject to the following liabilities:

- (a) All directors who vote for or assent to any distribution of assets of the corporation contrary to any lawful restriction in the North Carolina Nonprofit Corporation Act (the “Act”), the Articles of Incorporation or these bylaws, shall be jointly and severally liable to the corporation for the amount of the distribution that exceed what could have been distributed without violating such restrictions.

When a director, officer, employee or affected person has knowledge of a matter which may affect the corporation, they have an affirmative duty to bring the matter to the attention of the Board of Directors and the Chief Executive Officer.

Unless actual knowledge concerning the matter in question makes such reliance unreasonable, an officer or director shall not be liable, if the officer or director performed any and all duties in compliance with this article or the officer or director relied on information, opinions, reports or statements, including financial statements and other financial data, if prepared and presented by (i) one or more officers or employees of the corporation whom the director reasonably believes to be reliable and competent at in the matters presented; (ii) legal counsel, public accountants or other persons as to matters the director reasonably believes are within their professional or expert competence; or (iii) a committee of the board of which the director is not a member if the director reasonably believes the committee merits confidence.
