Step One: Identify an issue you care about.

What problem in the community do you plan to solve?

Why did you choose to solve this problem?

Step Two: Build your Girl Scout Silver Award Team.

Are you working as a team or are you working solo?

Team

Solo

If girls are working as a team, list their names below. If a girl is working solo, list just her name. All girls must be registered Girl Scouts. The new Girl Scout membership year begins October 1. List your future Silver Award Girl Scout(s).

By checking this box, I assure that each of the girls listed are registered Girl Scouts for this CURRENT Girl Scout membership year.

Step Three: Explore your community.

How is this problem affecting your community?

Who or what organization are you working with in your community to solve this problem? (Include name and contact information.)

Step Four: Choose your Silver Award Project.

What is your project title?

Proposed Start Date:

Proposed Completion Date:

Step Five: Make a plan.

Briefly describe the intended Silver Award project plan.

Why did the girls select this project? What problem does it solve? Please describe in detail.

What leadership skills will the girls bring toward their Silver Award project? What strengths, talents and skills will they use to lead/help lead the project to success?

How do you plan for your project to be sustainable?

Make a permanent structure.

Educate and inspire others to be a part of the change.

Change a rule, regulation or law.

Pass over documents to others after the completion of your project.

Other - Describe:

Please provide additional details here on how you plan to make your project sustainable.

Estimate the amount of time that will be spent on the project. Time starts when the girls have decided what they want to do for their project. Include planning, research, shopping, preparation, organization, communication and all other aspects of implementing the project. Remember that the Silver Award requires a minimum of 50 hours of service PER girl. For example: If you have four girls working on one project, then you will need to account for 200 hours.
